REASONS WHY

NELL GWYN, FROM THE PAINTING BY SIR PETER LELY.

WILL PAY TO PUSH
NELL

IT is the popular craze—that is, “Nell Gwyn” is. For half a year this craze has been gathering headway. Henrietta Crosman and Ada Rehan have starred the country in “Nell Gwyn” plays, of which “Mistress Nell” (by the same author as the novel) has made the far greater hit. Half a dozen minor companies have been doing it, too, and so, with all this publicity,

THE GROUND IS PREPARED.

The novel comes at the right moment, and

It is Being Well Advertised.

It won't pay to be caught napping.

GENERAL CHARLES KING

the Popular Novelist

THE WAYS OF THE SERVICE

"ALMOST I am persuaded you, too, must be a regular, so accurate is every detail. I have read and re-read it, and sent it to others who read, and the verdict is the same. It is the best yet."

This was written, of course, to FREDERICK PALMER, the author of the book, and is published with General King's permission.

"Fiction of the most charming kind."—Chicago Times-Herald.

ON PETER'S ISLAND

By ARTHUR R. ROPES

Librettist (under the nom de plume of Adrian Ross) of San Toy and The Geisha Girl

A powerful Russian story laid in St. Petersburg in the '80s. There is love and adventure, political conspiracy, and social intrigue. A very strong novel that handles Russian conspiracy in a new way.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will have ready May 1 "The Helmet of Navarre," by Bertha Runkle, richly illustrated by André Castaigne, a book that has met with approval that means much during its successful run in the Century Magazine, of which it has increased the circulation to a remarkable figure.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. issue to-day "A Journey to Nature," by J. M. Mowbray ("J. P. M."), a charming story telling of a Wall Street broker who was ordered away from work and took his young son with him into the hitherto almost unknown country. "The Lion's Brood," by Duffield Osborne, telling the story of Hannibal's great campaign is also ready; and the first volume of the successful new monthly, The World's Work, covering from November, 1900, to April 1, a six months in which great things have happened the world over.

BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY have ready four more novels that bid fair to break the records of popularity. "Like Another Helen" is a romance of the beautiful island of Crete by George Horton; "A Son of Austerity" is a story of English people, by George Knight; in "The Puppet Crown" Harold McGrath treats of a little Austrian border kingdom; and "A Heart of Flame" is the story of a master-passion, by Charles Fleming Embree. They have also just ready "Things Seen," impressions of men, cities and books, by the late G. W. Steevens, edited by G. S. Street, with a memoir of the brilliant correspondent by W. E. Henley.

BRENTANO'S, New York, have some very strong books of which dealers should make note: "The Story of Sarah," by Miss M. L. Forsslund, a dramatic story of the Long Island coast and the life-saving service; "The Fourth Estate," by A. P. Veldes, translated by Rachel Challice; "Nell Gwyn, Comedian," a novel by F. Frankfort Moore; "Our Fate and the Zodiac," by Margaret Mayo; "Lessons in Law for Women," by Judge Walter S. Cox; and "My Ocean Trip," by E. J. Cardigan, illustrated with signals and flags printed in colors with blank pages for memoranda. All these are meeting with increasing appreciation.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "German Life in Town and Country," by William Harbutt Dawson, who writes of Germans with an insight and sympathy that few writers possess when dealing with a foreign people. His acquaintance with the German people is an intimate one, yet he does not forget that he is writing for English readers and the customs and national characteristics most differing from the Anglo-Saxon usages and traits, receive the larger share of attention. They also issue "Dupes," by Ethel Watts Mumford, a clever story of various schemes and "isms" of which society people are the easiest dupes.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just issued a second edition revised and enlarged of "Modern German Literature," by Benjamin W. Wells, first issued six years ago, years that have been of great significance in the evolution of German literature. The last chapter of the former edition has been discarded and two chapters are substituted for it, one dealing with the literature from the rise of the young German school to the French war in 1870, another with the first generation of Imperial Germany, bringing the history of the literary development of Germany down to the closing months of the century. The house has also ready a new edition of Millicent Garrett Fawcett's "The Life of Her Majesty Queen Victoria," with an introduction by Mrs. Bradley Gilman, and a chronological table of the events of the great Victorian reign, a list of Prime Ministers, and a list of all the members of the Royal family. The book is illustrated with many portraits.

The scene of this romance is laid among the picturesque unrealities of a little border kingdom found on no map. Leopold, a poet and philosopher, is, by the consent of Austria, the king. His brother, Duke of a nearby Duchy, crafty, ambitious, unscrupulous, plots for possession of the crown, the result being a series of clever intrigues and dashing adventures. There is a charming young Princess loved by an honorable, manly young fellow, who largely influences the plot.

In 8 v. v. 1, 680-1638. Buffalo, N. Y., Moulton Publishing Co., 1901. c. 3-768 p. O. cl., $5; hf. mor., $6.50.

Beginning with Beowulf 680, nearly two hundred writers are quoted and their works described through extracts from the works of contemporary and modern critics, the volume ending with Sir Robert Ayton, 1570-1638. The complete work will comprise eight volumes, and will include the names of all living English and American authors. Each author is treated chronologically—in most cases beginning with contemporary criticism and ending with some living authority. Thus under the head of Geoffrey Chaucer, the first articles are by Deschamps and Gower, written in the twelfth century, and the concluding criticisms are by Lounsbury, Courthope, Pollard, Corson, Saintsbury, and Skeat. Each volume will contain an alphabetical table of contents, and in the last volume copious indexes will follow the regular text.

A story of Chicago life, dealing with exceptional social conditions. A woman, hardly more than a girl from a Nebraska village, and a man from a small eastern town meet in a Chicago publishing house, where both are employed, and they fall in love. They cannot marry, as the girl had earlier been married to a dissolute fellow, whom she had left. Their temptation and punishment, and the final development of their nobler selves, is the story.

Phelps, C: E. Falstaff and equity: an interpretation. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1901. c. 16+201 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A book about the humor and legal knowledge of Shakespeare. It is based upon the interpretation of Falstaff's remark, "There is no equity stirring," which the author takes as an example of Shakespeare's more subtle humor, and interprets it with minute knowledge of the Shakespearean criticism and legal acumen. He shows how Shakespeare became familiar with law, particularly with equity; his book will have a special interest for lawyers who are students of Shakespeare, on account of its wealth of curious learning and its excellent legal method of exposition and argument. The writer is judge of the Supreme Court of Baltimore and author of "Judicial equity," etc.

The volume contains the results of the latest discoveries connected with the vast aerial ocean which encircles the earth; the physical and chemical properties of the air; its geological history as far as it can be traced with the remotest ages of the past, and the useful deductions that can be drawn from all these facts.

To learn something about the history and historic sites of New York City a plan of Saturday afternoon excursions is made up between a father and his three children of eleven, twelve, and fourteen, and a friend, Professor Williams, that they call the "walking historian." They visit together various places of past or present interest, the facts about them being evolved in conversations. Bibliography (12 p.) An explanation of street names.

The town of Sarrio on the Spanish coast is the background to a love story that has an unexpected interruption. The amusing sayings and doings of the notables of Sarrio and the rivalries of two political newspapers with the eccentricities of their editors lighten the sad scenes of the love story, the whole forming a vivid picture of middle class provincial Spanish life of to-day.

SAMUEL H. PUTNAM, for thirty-six years a member of the firm of Putnam, Davis & Co., Boston, has purchased an interest in the

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE APPLETON NEW DEPARTURE.

THE new departure in book-trade methods announced by D. Appleton & Company may indeed, as they say, "be considered revolutionary in its probable effect upon the book trade." The plan is to apply the subscription method of payment by instalment to the entire Appleton list, now comprising nearly 4000 titles, covering, as they rightly say, almost "the whole domain of literature."

We have often suggested that the enterprising methods of the subscription trade, so far as they are sound and legitimate, should be utilized by retail booksellers in pushing books among their local constituents—particularly that they should seek the customer as well as expect the customer to seek them. The instalment plan, which has been almost "done to death" in recent years, has both strong points and weaknesses. Its strong points are that it appeals to a great body of people who have saved little capital but who are earning sufficient money to apply a little each week or each month to such things as books, and if they can be induced to buy books instead of less desirable articles, so much the better. The weaknesses are that it induces a good many people to make undertakings really beyond their means, that goods on the instalment plan cost the buyer in the long run an increased price, and that an enormous amount of capital is needed to cover the investment necessary on the modern plan of delivering the articles on payment of the first instalment. It was this extraordinary investment demand, in their large success with the subscription business, without the provision of correspondingly increased capital, that caused the Appleton difficulties last year; the present experiment is probably meant to take advantage of that success and of the increase of active capital which has come to the house with its reorganization, which last is understood to furnish adequate safeguard for this method of sale.

The first impression of the retail trade, as the announcement was made in the daily press and in the last issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, was perhaps a fear that, just as a period of reform is about to dawn the encouragement which the publishers' plan had inspired would be in part balanced by the discouragement that so important a list as the Appletons' should be placed in the hands of the peripatetic subscription agents who are the rival of the local book dealer, and to that extent diverted from the regular trade. We are glad, on the contrary, to be able to state on the authority of Messrs. Appleton that the house is prepared to extend to retail booksellers the opportunity for this utilization of capital, by accepting them as local agents, and receiving subscriptions through them. The Messrs. Appleton will later on make announcement in detail of the conditions under which this new system may be utilized by the retail trade. This plan may work out to the double advantage of the publishers and of the retail trade. The retailer, with his knowledge of his local public, would be less likely than the peripatetic agent to submit to the publishing house names of would-be buyers who could not stand the investigation into their credit which should be made before such orders are accepted, while the bookseller can be of service to the buyer in giving him trained advice as to his selection, while reaping an adequate profit for himself. Of course orders for books on the instalment plan must be at the full list prices, to cover the extension of time and other expenses of this method. If local dealers will take advantage of the offer of Messrs. Appleton, on old books, in addition to making the best of the publishers' plan for new books, the retailers may find a solution of the difficulties which have hitherto faced them on both sides of the book business. How far this example may be followed by other houses will be a very important question to the retail trade, which will doubtless be much influenced in its endeavors to keep well stocked with standard lines by the support received from their publishers in marketing them.

THOSE booksellers who have not become members of the American Booksellers' Association are reminded that they may become charter members by joining before May 1, the date also at which the publishers' plan as to net prices on copyright books is to go into effect. As a recent circular letter of the Booksellers' Association, which we reprint in part elsewhere, points out, the increase of charter members will therefore be the best means of assuring success for the publishers' plan. We find among the subscribers to THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY many booksellers whose names do not yet appear on the rolls of the association, and in view of the form in which the association has been put by its constitution we take cordial pleasure in urging them to send in their names as charter members.

AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE American Booksellers' Association, under date of April 4, has sent out a third circular letter inviting those members of the retail trade who have not yet sent in their names to become members of the organization, of which the following is the essential part:

"If you and all other booksellers will unite with us now, and heartily co-operate with us in supporting those prominent publishers who are anxious to include all new copyrighted books of fiction under the net price system, we confidently believe that this end will be accomplished soon after the publishers' agreement goes into effect. Under such rules as have already been adopted and such further regulations as we hope soon to have adopted, you will be able to control your own legitimate local trade. The large number of book-buyers in your vicinity, who should rightfully be your customers, will no longer have any inducements to send directly to mail-order agencies, or to other 'book-butcher,' in order to get books at 'cut prices.' Then your book business will be restored to its normal condition. Dealers even in small places will no longer be limited to ordering an occasional copy of a popular book, by mail, for a special customer; but all dealers will be warranted in putting in a fairly good stock of books, being assured that they will ultimately make as good profit on books as is made by other merchants on other similar lines of merchandise.

"All that we seek to accomplish in the present reform is to eliminate the unfair competition from which the trade has long suffered. It should be an encouragement to you, as it is to us, that the leading publishers are quite as anxious, as are the booksellers, to restore the book trade to a prosperous and healthful condition, so that book stores, carrying a fairly representative stock, will be maintained in every city and town in the country. The authors are also desirous of having such book stores maintained in every locality, in order that their books may be on exhibition, where they may be inspected by all readers; but especially the reading public have a right to demand that the book trade shall be conducted in such manner that the new books of all authors shall be promptly accessible in local book stores, where they may be examined by prospective purchasers. The publishers have come to realize that no dealer can longer be expected to carry books in stock and on exhibition, if they are to be inspected by customers, who may make their selections as a result of such inspection, but who, instead of purchasing from the local dealer, will send away to a mail-order agency, or to some 'book-butcher,' where cut prices may be obtained, lower than can possibly be afforded by the local bookseller.

"Moreover, by fixing a uniform retail price and causing it absolutely to be maintained, under an effective penalty for violation of agreement, that useless waste of profits that has been caused by unreasonable and unfair local competition, will be entirely eliminated.

"All that is required for the successful carrying out of our plans is the active and hearty co-operation of all dealers.

"Will you not now unite with us in our combined effort with the leading publishers to restore your book business to a profitable basis? Under healthful conditions you should sell five books where you now sell one, and you should make as good a profit as is made on any other line of merchandise. Under these circumstances you will be able to order books in such quantities that you can economize on the cost of transportation, and make this branch of your business both prominent and profitable."

LAWYERS AS AUTHORS.

"No doubt," says a New York Sun writer, "many a young lawyer has been dissuaded from attempting literary work by the familiar warning of the professor at his law school, to the effect that the law is a jealous mistress; yet literature would have lost much if this warning had always been heeded. An apt illustration is furnished by the 'Orbiter Dicta' of Augustine Birrell, Q.C., of the English bar; and going a little further back we may cite 'Ten Thousand a Year' and the other works of Samuel Warren. That fiction is still an attractive field of endeavor to members of the bar is proven by the recent publication through G. P. Putnam's Sons of 'Maya,' a story of Yucatan, from the pen of William Dudley Foulke, the well-known civil service reformer. Mr. Foulke came of New York Quaker stock, and was graduated at Columbia College in 1869 at the head of his class. He studied law at the same institution and practised his profession here, with exceptional success for so young a man, until his marriage in Indiana led him to remove to Richmond in that State, where for a time he occupied a judicial position. His novel, though romantic in spirit, is based upon his own observations as a traveller in Yucatan, and is instructive as well as entertaining.

"A lawyer could make up a very interesting library of non-professional works written by members of the bar. In such a collection of books Bacon would occupy the first place. Scott might be included, as having been a member of the bar in Edinburgh, and Robert Louis Stevenson, as also a Scottish barrister. But if we omitted those authors whose careers were distinctively literary, and chose only the writers whose main business in life was the practice of the law, our library might still be one of fair proportions. Works which immediately suggest themselves are the 'Liberty, Equality and Fraternity' of Sir James Fitzjames Stephen; 'Shakespeare's Legal Acquirements,' by Lord Campbell; 'The Law in Shakespeare,' by Senator Cushman K. Davis; 'Virgil in English Verse' by Lord Justice Bowen, and Lord Justice Fry's 'Studies by the Way,' which appeared a few weeks ago. Examples might be multiplied to the extent of scores and probably of hundreds. They serve to show that literary ability is not inconsistent with legal distinction, in spite of any dictum to the contrary. Robert Grant makes an excellent Probate Judge in Massachusetts notwithstanding that he is a very successful writer of stories, and the law books of Mr. F. J. Stimson commend themselves to lawyers no less than the novels of 'J. S. of Dale' commended themselves to the reading public."

CURIOUS RECORDS OF ENGLISH BOOKS AND AUTHORS.

"LITERARY records" says a writer in the St. James's Gazette, "are always interesting. The largest circulation of any English work in copyright has been attained by 'Enquire Within for Everything,' of which a million and a quarter copies have been sold. The largest circulation of any English novel in copyright is that of 'East Lynne,' of which the public have bought nearly half a million. The earliest published work still in copyright is Tennyson's 'Poems by Two Brothers,' which dates from 1837. The largest amount ever given for serial rights in England is £7000, paid by Cornhill for George Eliot's 'Romola.' The largest check ever given to an English author is £20,000, received by Lord Macaulay for his history. The most expensive single volume lately issued is Morris's 'Chaucer,' published at £20. The thickest single volume in print is the 'Catalogue of Current Literature,' which measures 10½ inches across the back. The highest price given for a first edition is 545 guineas for an uncut copy of the Kilmarnock 'Burns.'

"The author who has lived longest after the publication of his masterpiece is Philip James Bailey, who wrote 'Festus' over sixty years ago. The largest number of volumes in any single series is the Bohn library of 770 books. The longest life in any dictionary of biography is Mr. Sidney Lee's 'Life of Shakespeare,' which fills fifty pages of the 'Dictionary of National Biography.' The most expensive English scientific work is the story of the Challenger voyage, told in fifty volumes, costing over £100,000. The most voluminous living novelist is Miss Braddon, who has published over fifty novels and innumerable stories, and whose pen is said to have been worth to her more than £100,000."

WELSH PRINTING AND PUBLISHING.

UNDER the auspices of the Liverpool Welsh National Society, Mr. John Ballinger, of Cardiff, recently delivered an interesting lecture at the Liverpool Royal Institution on "Some Welsh Literary Curiosities." In the course of his address Mr. Ballinger, according to the British and Colonial Printer, said that the two things which most needed attention at the present time were (1) a better system of publishing books in Wales, and (2) a good history of Welsh literature. Anything more haphazard than the present method of publishing it would be difficult to find. There is no system, no registration of titles, the bulk of the books are not entered at Stationers' Hall, and therefore enjoy no copyright, and very few of them are sent to the British Museum and the other libraries entitled to them under the Copyright Act. A history of Welsh printing and publishing would read like a description of a game of battledore and shuttlecock. The earliest Welsh books were printed in London, 1546 being the first known date. Then came the Roman Catholic Welsh books printed abroad. In the seventeenth century Welsh printing was practically confined to London, but with the dawn of the eighteenth century Shrewsbury became the chief centre, and with Chester supplied books to North and Mid Wales for the greater part of the century. In the South, Carmarthenshire took the lead, the first printing press in Wales being started at Adpar, a suburb of Newcastle Emlyn, a book being issued there bearing the date 1718. Two or three years later printing was being actively carried on at Carmarthen. Bristol and Dublin printers were also responsible for some Welsh printing in the eighteenth century while America was early in the field, a Welsh book being printed at Philadelphia in 1721. After referring to the press of Lewis Morris at Holyhead, and the first Welsh periodical, of which only one number appeared, the lecturer dealt briefly with the printing press at Trevecca, established about 1770, which for some years was a valuable contributor to the literary life of Wales, amongst other productions being a Welsh Bible, now known as "Beible John Canne." So far as he had been able to collect information, 201 books in Welsh or relating to Wales had been published in 1900. The books may be roughly arranged as—Books in Welsh, printed in Wales, 78; books in Welsh, printed elsewhere, 11; English books, printed in Wales, 51; books relating to Wales, printed elsewhere, 61; total record for 1900, 201.

PICK-UPS.

THE NEW DISPENSATION.—"It's easy to be a great novelist nowadays. The last work is always the best."

"Yes; it used to be that authors died and their works lived, now the authors live and the works die."—Life.

"ANYTHING ON"?—Recently one of our subscribers advertised for "anything on oysters." He received by return mail the following offer: "You advertise for anything on the oyster. We have a lot of shells that were on the oyster once. How much will you give? Bivalve."

OBITUARY NOTES.

GEORGE MURRAY SMITH.

THE death of George Murray Smith, head of the historic publishing house of Smith, Elder & Co., was reported by cable on April 8. The imprint of this firm was associated with the great literary names of the Victorian period. It appeared on the works of Thackeray, the Brownings, Ruskin, Matthew Arnold, Anthony Trollope, Mrs. Gaskell, Leigh Hunt and George Eliot. Mr. Smith was the leading spirit of the great house. He began the publication of the Cornhill Magazine in 1860 with Thackeray as editor, and a generation later, in 1885, brought out the first part of the "Dictionary of National Biography," that vast undertaking which was brought to a close in June of last year.

A full biographical sketch of Mr. Smith and his large, unselfish work for English literature will appear in a later issue.

DR. WILLIAM J. YOUMANS, for many years editor of The Popular Science Monthly, died at his home in Mount Vernon on Wednesday, April 10, aged 63. Dr. Youmans was born near Saratoga in 1838. He graduated from the New York University in 1865, and then went abroad to study under Thomas Huxley. Upon his return he practiced medicine for three years in Minnesota, and then joined his elder brother, Edward Livingston Youmans, in establishing the Popular Science Monthly for the Appletons in 1872. Since the death of his brother, in 1887, Dr. Youmans had been sole manager of this periodical until a year ago, when he retired from active work. The cause of death was typhoid fever.

FELIX GRAS, the Provençal writer, died at Avignon, France, on Monday, March 4, at the early age of 56. The discovery of Félix Gras was due, so far as the English-speaking world is concerned, to Mrs. Thomas A. Janvier, who was living in Provence when his work was called to her attention. She immediately translated the first chapters of "The Reds of the Midi," and sent them on to the Appletons here whose literary adviser read them with enthusiasm, and immediately urged her to finish the translation and send it on for publication. The book was successful here and in England, and was followed by translations of "The Terror" and "The White Terror," all dealing with the French Revolution and after.

FRANÇOIS JULES EDMOND GOT, who died in Paris on March 20, was one of the most distinguished comedians of the Théâtre Français, during the latter half of the nineteenth century, and for many years occupied a position in public affection and esteem similar to that enjoyed in New York by the late John Gilbert. He was born at Lignerolles on the 1st of October, 1822, and was educated at the Charlemagne College. M. Got was professor of elocution at the Conservatoire from 1877 to 1894, and was decorated with the ribbon of the Legion of Honor in 1881. He wrote the librettos of two operas, "François Villon" and "L'Esclave."

LORIN BLODGETT, an eminent statistician and one of the foremost authorities on the higher economics, died in Philadelphia on March 24. He was seventy-nine years old. He was born in Jamestown, N. Y., and was a graduate of the Geneva, now Hobart, College. In 1851 he was made an assistant in the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, being placed in charge of the researches on climatology. His works on atmospheric physics were among the first published in this country, and performed an important part in establishing the science in the United States.

JOHN HEATON, for many years trade manager for George Routledge & Sons, died recently, aged 83. He was identified with the Routledges from 1848 to 1896, when he retired and occupied his leisure hours in compiling a very useful set of "Interest Tables." Buckland's "Ready Reckoners" are also very well known.

CHARLES BUCKLAND, one of the partners of the English firm of Henry Sotheran & Co., died March 16 from influenza and pneumonia, aged 69.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

COLLECTORS have long been aware that there were seven signatures of John Milton in existence. An eighth has now appeared in a black-letter copy of the Geneva Version of the Bible.

MRS. CLARA LOUISE BURNHAM, having returned from her months of rest and recreation in Europe, has written a story entitled "Miss Pritchard's Wedding Trip" (Houghton, Mifflin & Co.), which goes over a European tour and contains a very pleasant imaginary wedding trip which Miss Pritchard took with the daughter of the man whom she had expected to marry.

LAST fall Dean Fremantle, one of the broadest of English churchmen, delivered a course of lectures at Harvard University on "Christian Ordinances and Social Progress," and these are now included in a book which is so catholic in its appreciation of religious ideas that it will be found very interesting to a large class of readers. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. are the publishers.

"MRS. CHARLOTTE C. STOPES," says the Athenaeum, "is about to publish a volume entitled 'Shakespeare's Family.' It is written on purely genealogical lines, viewing Shakespeare's position rather as a resident in Stratford-on-Avon and a Warwickshire gentleman than as a writer. The author hopes to show conclusively that, on the mother's side, Shakespeare was descended from Alfred the Great. The work will be illustrated by sketches, facsimiles, and many pedigrees, and will be published by Elliot Stock."

M. L. PELLECHET, the genial and accomplished bibliographer whose death we announced some weeks ago, has not only willed to the Bibliothèque Nationale an important legacy, but has left to the Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres a round sum of 300,000 francs, the interest of which is to be devoted to the preservation of historical and archaeological monuments in France and in French colonies. The object of the legacy appears to be those monuments in which the State does not much concern itself, rather than those which are too important for it to neglect.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE N. Y. Tribune for April 10 issued a supplement celebrating the sixtieth anniversary of its existence.

The Börsenblatt for March 19, 20 and 21 contains an exhaustive bibliography by I. Brann of literature relating to Hans Sachs of Nuremberg, the most celebrated of the Meistersänger, 1494-1576.

Life will pay $200 for the best short story received before August 1, $100 for the second best, and $50 for the third best. No story containing more than 2500 words, or less than 1000 words will be considered.

WITH its issue of March 30 The Home Journal, which has for fifty-five years been a widely known society and literary weekly, changed its name to Town and Country. Some months ago a new corporation was organized under the style of The Stuyvesant Company, the name being chosen in honor of the first Governor of New Amsterdam. This company has become the owner both of The Home Journal and Brooklyn Life, whose notable success as an exponent of the social side of Brooklyn is universally recognized. Among the interesting material to be published shortly is a series on "The Social Life of American Cities" and "Great Country Houses of America."

THE April, May, and June numbers of The Independent will contain a poem, two nature articles, and a story by Maurice Thompson, which were found among his papers after his death. The story, "Jere Jones's Ride," appears in the current number of the periodical, and the poem, which is in praise of the valor and patriotism of the "Soldiers of the Blue and the Gray," will be published in the Decoration Day number on May 29. "Rocked in the Wind's Cradle," a description of a solitary fishing and hunting trip in which the author suspended his hammock from the top of a tree and there slept for two weeks, has been reserved for the annual vacation number of The Independent, published June 6.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. say that the publication of Ian Maclaren's "Life of the Master," announced for this spring, has had to be postponed till next autumn.

C. W. BARDEEN, Syracuse, N. Y., has just ready "A Dictionary of Educational Biography," giving upwards of 400 portraits and sketches of persons prominent in educational work.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just issued "Edward Blake, College Student," by Charles M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps," another sermon story, brimful of facts and lessons.

A. WESSELS COMPANY, New York, have issued the 15th edition of Pastor's "Register for Private Use," arranged by W. T. Beatty. This book was formerly issued by A. D. F. Randolph & Co.

DREXEL BIDDLE has brought out an eighth large edition of "Ouirda," by Countess Loveau de Chavanne, and his very handsome book, "Among the Mushrooms," is also proving thoroughly successful.

PETER ECKLER, New York, has just published "Erasmus In Praise of Folly," with portrait, life of Erasmus, and his epistle to Sir Thomas More. The book is illustrated with the Holbein engravings.

CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIAN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Nashville, Tenn., will issue shortly a book on "Dancers and Dancing," by the Rev. J. M. Hulbert, who demolishes all the usual arguments in favor of this pastime.

IN the Spring Announcement number of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, April 16, Elias H. Johnson's "Religious Use of Imagination," issued by Silver, Burdette & Co., was, by an error, credited to the Saalfeld Publishing Co.

H. J. SMITH & DEVEREAUX Co. have a very funny book in "The Adventures of Theodore as Related by One of the Rough Riders," illustrated by H. C. Heinrich, a good-natured burlesque on the Vice-President's recent trip to the West.

At a recent meeting of the Société des Amis des Livres a prize of 1000 fr. was offered to the artist who could invent a distinctive style of printing for the twentieth century to be placed in parallel with the Elzevirs, Didots, etc., of earlier times.

GINN & COMPANY have just issued "Bird Portraits," by Seton-Thompson, with descriptive text by Ralph Hoffmann. About twenty birds are presented of which the majority are only summer residents in the northern states. The book is a large quarto beautifully printed and gorgeously bound.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY announce "Arline Valere," by Joseph Hallworth, for early publication. It is a story of modern New York, and the author has illustrated his text with upwards of 100 pen-and-ink sketches, reproducing the manuscript as it came from the author, text and sketches line for line.

A. WESSELS COMPANY, New York, have ready Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps's "A Singular Life," which is the April issue of the Pan-American Library. The March issue was Merriman's "With Edged Tools"; and the May issue will be Jerome K. Jerome's "Second Thoughts of an Idle Fellow."

WE regret that the word net was omitted before the price in Funk & Wagnalls Company's advertisement of George Ohnet's "In Deep Abyss," which appeared in our issue of April 6. The book is published under the rules of The American Publishers' Association covering net books, which makes the mistake an important one.

PAYOT, UPHAM & Co., San Francisco, have just ready "An Affair in the South Seas," by Leigh H. Irvine, a story of adventure in the dreamy belt, replete with the charm of incident and the thrill of life in the great summer ocean of the tropics. A retired millionaire sea captain takes a few good people to an island known to no white man but himself.

SMALL, MAYNARD & COMPANY publish at once "Monoma," a new novel by Justin McCarthy; and "The Grapes of Wrath," by Mary Harriott Norris, an American novel of the Civil War. They have also almost ready an exhaustive work entitled "Theology at the Dawn of the Twentieth Century," a volume of original essays by many theologians and laymen of England and America.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have ready the fourth edition of "Truth Dexter," by Sidney McCall bringing the book up to its 10th thousand. They also publish early this month "The Master Knot of Human Fate," by Ellis Meredith, of which the scene is laid near Manitou, Col.; "Ballantyne," Mrs. Helen Campbell's new novel; and a second edition of George Wharton James's "In and Around the Grand Canyon."

THE April dinner of the Booksellers' League was held at the rooms of the Aldine Club on Wednesday, April 10. About forty members were present, who listened with pleasure and much applause to the reading of a paper on "Photo-Mechanical Printing Processes," by Mr. Ernest Edwards, of the Photogravure Color Co., illustrated by stereopticon views and printed examples. We hope to print the paper in our next issue.

THE bound volume of "Allgemeine Bibliographie" for 1900 has just been issued by F. A. Brockhaus, Leipzig. It shows the same careful work of former years, and the twelve numbers when bound give an even better idea of the amount of labor required to get up the contents than can be known from the monthly instalments. There is also an English edition in which the original prices are given.

THE Committee on Publication of the Grolier Club announces the publication on or about April 23 of a thoroughly revised and corrected edition on large paper of the "Catalogue of an Exhibition of the Selected Works of the Poets Laureate of England." A mezzotint portrait of Ben Jonson has been specially engraved for this edition by S. Arlent Edwards after the original portrait in oil by Honthorst.

THOMAS A. MACDONALD has written and published "Two Lovers and Two Loves," a story intended to bring out the faithfulness of a man and a woman to every good instinct of their natures, and also to outline what the author thinks is God's plan for their reward. It is a story of religious hope in which all the Bible incidents are woven into a story of today, teaching noble self-sacrifice and happy trust in a higher power.

THE author of a book which has sold well has adopted a novel scheme for advertising it. He has had a large quantity of excellent Egyptian cigarettes made, and on the wrapper of each in gold letters is stamped the name of his book. He has sent packages of these cigarettes to his friends, with the request that they scatter them where they will do the most good, and yet authors are not considered men of business.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS has just issued in their Story of the Nations "The Thirteen Colonies," by Helen Ainsley Smith, which takes in two volumes of the series; "Dwellers in the Hills," by Melville Davisson Post, a breezy story of West Virginia cattle ranges; and "Another Englishwoman's Love Letters," by Barry Pain, a parody on that much-talked-of book of letters, of which the authorship is not yet settled beyond dispute.

A SPECIAL cable dispatch to the N. Y. Sun says that English publishers find the six-penny reprints popular. The Cassells have issued sixteen of these reprints, including stories by Stevenson, Rider Haggard, Anthony Hope, Clark Russell and Quiller-Couch. These reprints have had an average sale of about eighty thousand and an aggregate sale of 1,250,000. Stevenson's "Treasure Island" and Rider Haggard's "King Solomon's Mines" were the most popular.

WILLIAM R. JENKINS, New York, has ready this week "Constructive Process for Learning German," by Adolphe Dreyspring, author of many approved books for the study of German. His new volume combines grammar and the cumulative method, as is adapted to school and college instruction. The house also brings out a second edition, revised and enlarged, of Victor F. Bernard's "L'Art d'Intéresser en Classe." A little comedy by E. Labiche, entitled "La Lettre Chargée" has been included, and many notes and questions are added.

F. M. BUCKLES & COMPANY have published in the current issue of their Century Series "The Luck of Lowland Laddie," by May Crommelin. In May they will issue their first story in the American Authors' Series, which will be entitled "The Mysterious Burglar," and is by a well-known contributor to the great magazines; and also stories by B. M. Croker, Richard Marsh, Florence Warden, and other standard authors. A sample copy of any book on the Buckles list will be sent to any bookseller, so that he can judge of the likelihood of selling the book in his neighborhood before he sends his order.

"A JOURNEY TO NATURE," by J. M. Mowbray, which Doubleday, Page & Co. are to publish shortly, will be beautifully decorated throughout by Charles Edward Hooper in a manner peculiarly sympathetic to the story, which is that of a Wall Street man learning the delights of nature during a forced sojourn in the country. It is the same story that attracted so much attention in the New York Evening Post last summer, and it will doubtless give the writer a prominent place among contemporary American writers, for it not only displays a rare feeling for nature, but contains a great deal more that is vital and human.

JOHN WILEY & SONS have issued "Reservoirs for Irrigation, Water-Power and Domestic Water-Supply," by James Dix Schuyler; "Field-Manual for Engineers," by Philetus H. Philbrick; "Elevation and Stadia Tables" together with hydraulic tables, by Arthur P. Davis; the 15th edition of "Steam Heating for Buildings; or, Hints to Steam Fitters"; "The Law of Contracts," a textbook for technical schools of engineering and architecture, by John Casson Wait; "Steam Boiler Economy," by William Kent; "A Manual of Laboratory Physics," by H. M. Tory and F. H. Pitcher; and a fourth enlarged and revised edition of "Highway Construction," by A. T. Byrne.

HARPER & BROTHERS have ready some very interesting books. "The Progress of the Century" is made up of articles which originally appeared in the N. Y. Sun by such well-known men as Andrew Lang, Cardinal Gibbons, Goldwin Smith, etc.; "The Love Letters of Bismarck" show an entirely new side of the character of the great statesman; the "Love Letters of Victor Hugo" cover the years from 1820-1822; and there is a collection of short stories by Mary E. Wilkins entitled "Understudies." The fourth volume in the successful American Novel Series will be "A Victim of Circumstances," by Geraldine Anthony, a brilliant story of New York society, to be issued on April 23.

CHARLES A. HANNA has printed privately, at No. 43 West Thirty-second Street, New York, an octavo volume of nearly 650 pages, entitled "Historical Collections of Harrison County, Ohio." Details of pioneer life of early settlements, of church organization, fill out Part 1. Part 2 is an exceptionally meritorious collection, in alphabetical arrangement, of land patents, early marriages, graveyard records, and, above all, will abstracts from 1813 to 1860. This last feature is, so far as we know, unique in works of this character. Part 3, finally, presents 130 pages of genealogies, and this section has been reprinted as a separate volume by the compiler, with a portion of Part 1 prefixed.

THE history of American medicine in its early part is the history of the patient, self-sacrificing men, who worked for small rewards, yet wrought a vast good. It is the story of individuals and of character quite as much as an account of scientific progress in its manifest form. For this reason there is broad human interest in Dr. Francis Randolph Packard's volume, "The History of Medicine in the United States," which J. B. Lippincott Company publish. The work covers comparatively unexplored ground, and is the product of much study of original documents and of information hitherto unused. The period covered is that between the earliest English colonization and the year 1800.

M. F. MANSFIELD & Co. have issued "The Effects of the Factory System," written in 1895-6 by Allen Clarke and revised in 1897-8; "Recollections of a Georgia Loyalist," by Elizabeth Lichtenstein Johnston, written in 1836 and now edited by the Rev. Arthur Wentworth Eaton; "Clothes and the Man," hints on the wearing of clothes by "The Major" of To-day, selected from the bright pages of that popular society paper; "A Book of Images," by W. T. Horton; some numbers of Beltaine, the organ of the Irish Literary Theatre, edited by W. B. Yeats, bound in pasteboard; and two volumes of poems, "Shadows and Fireflies," by Louis Barsac; and "Odes," by Laurence Bunyon.

THE two hundred librarians of the state of New York have been voting on the books of the year 1900 best adapted to library use. Ernest Seton-Thompson's "Biography of a Grizzly" stands second on the list of fifty selected from the five hundred voted on, and seven other books published last year by the Century Co. are among the approved half hundred. These are John Morley's "Oliver Cromwell," Miss Scidmore's "China: The Long-Lived Empire," Captain Joshua Slocum's "Sailing Alone Around the World," Maurice Thompson's "My Winter Garden," Andrew Carnegie's "Gospel of Wealth," Theodore Roosevelt's "Strenuous Life," and E. S. Brooks's "Century Book of the American Colonies."

T. C. & E. C. JACK, of Edinburgh, have just ready the first two volumes of the Edinburgh edition of "Walter Scott's Novels," to be issued in 48 volumes uniform with the Edinburgh "Stevenson." The text is that of the last edition revised by the author, and all his notes and introductions are given, but no notes by any other hand. The edition is printed direct from type on paper of pure rag, very light in weight. The portraits of Scott and of the characters in the novels have been selected by and executed under the direction of James L. Caw, curator of the Scottish National Portrait Gallery. The edition is limited to 1000 copies, and the first volume in each set is signed by the publishers. The printing is done by T. & A. Constable.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will issue shortly "Ephemera Critica," by John Churton Collins; "China: a History of Diplomacy and Commerce," by R. H. Parker, Consul-General in Corea and Kiung Chow; "Our Naval Heroes" (English), by various authors, edited by G. E. Marindin; "Frescoes in the Sixtine Chapel in Rome," by Evelyn Marsh Phillips; "The Evolution of the Bible," by H. W. Hoare; "The British Thoroughbred Horse," by W. Allison; "Little Memoirs of the Eighteenth Century," by George Paston; and "Trusts and the State," by Henry Macrosty. Later in the season they will publish two juveniles: "The Adventures of a Japanese Doll," by Henry Meyer, author of the imitable "Adventures in Toyland"; and "Four and Twenty Toilers," illustrated in color.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will issue at once "My Experiences of the Boer War," from the German of Adalbert Count Sternberg; "Notes on Reconnoitering in South Africa; Boer War, 1899-1900"; "Abyssinia: Through the Lion-Land to the Court of the Lion of Judah," by Herbert Vivian; "Occasional Essays on Native South Indian Life," by Stanley P. Rice; "In Tibet and Chinese Turkestan," a record of three years' exploration, by Capt. H. H. P. Deasy; "The Wildfowler in Scotland," by John Guille Millais; "Old Cottages and Farmhouses in Kent and Sussex," by W. Galsworthy Davie; "Studies in Peerage and Family History," by J. Horace Round; and "Some Records of the Later Life of Harriet, Countess Granville," by her granddaughter, the Hon. Mrs. Oldfield.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish in rapid succession "A Sailor's Log," by Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans; "Sirius," a new novel by Miss Fowler; "The Curious Courtship of Kate Pains," by Louis Evan Shipman; "His Letters," by Julian Gordon; "The Woman's Book of Sports," by J. Parmly Paret; and "The Mystery of the Clapsed Hands," by

Guy Boothby. "The Spanish People: their origin, growth and influence," by Martin A. S. Hume, is the first volume in the Great People's Series; "War's Brighter Side," by Julian Ralph, with contributions from Kipling, Conan Doyle and others, is a unique book; "General Meade," by Isaac R. Penny-packer, a new volume in the Great Commanders Series; and a new edition of Edgar S. Maclay's "A History of the United States Navy."

THE MOULTON PUBLISHING COMPANY, Buffalo, N. Y., has issued volume I of "The Library of Literary Criticism of English and American Authors," on which its editor Charles Wells Moulton, assisted by a corps of able contributors, has been working for twenty years. This volume covers from 680 to 1638. Each author is treated chronologically, beginning with contemporary criticism and ending with some living authority. Under the head of Geoffrey Chaucer, the first articles are by Deschamps and Gower, and then follow criticisms by Lounsbury, Court-hope, Pollard, Corson, Saintsbury, and Skeat. Every criticism is dated and the source from which it was taken is stated. Each volume will contain an alphabetical table of contents and in the last volume copious indexes will follow the original text. With few exceptions the quotations have been collated with the original text and over 5000 volumes have been consulted in compiling this volume. The second volume will be ready about June first, and the remaining six volumes will follow at intervals of three months each.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co., will publish next week a new story by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps entitled "The Successors of Mary the First," which tells in a very fresh and humorous way the experiences (perhaps of the author) with sundry and divers servants who brought their various kinds of trials and perplexities to the mistress. The story abounds in humor and irony, and though it may not solve the "servant-girl problem," it will afford a good deal of amusement. Mrs. Wiggin's new book containing "Penelope's Irish Experiences" will find a hearty welcome, since it is full of Mrs. Wiggin's peculiar fun and contains a good deal of delightful description of the country and of the people. Bret Harte's new book, "Under the Redwoods," is one of the most characteristic volumes Mr. Harte has recently published, and contains besides nine stories an autobiographical chapter, which is of very great interest. Perhaps the most important announcement is that of an entirely new edition, called the Cambridge edition of the "Complete Works of Lord Macaulay," which gives the "History of England" in five volumes, "Essays, Critical and Historical," in three, and "Miscellanies" in two. Each of these groups has in its last volume a full index. Henry D. Sedgwick, jr., of New York, contributes a general introduction and editorial notes to the several divisions of the books. Great care has been taken to make the edition as accurate and complete as possible, and the volumes are printed and bound in a style which will make them very desirable for libraries.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTES.

A PUBLISHER of Budapest will issue shortly a Hungarian bibliography covering the period between 1886 and 1900, entitled "Bibliographia Hungroise." The work will include the books, maps, and periodicals that have appeared in Hungary during the period covered, also the publications of universities and scientific societies not handled by the trade. The work will be by title and subject catch-words according to the plan of the Congrès des Editeurs et Brussels in June 1897.

OTTO MUHLBRECHT has compiled and Pott-kammer Mühlbrecht, of Berlin, has published the bibliography of law for 1900 under the title "Uebersicht des Gesamtten Staats und Rechtswissenschaftlichen Litteratur des Jahres, 1900." This is the 33d yearly volume of this fine piece of bibliographical work. The year brought 4340 new publications, of which 2598 were German, 551 French, 585 English, 285 Italian, 122 from the Netherlands, 117 Scandanavian, and 82 Spanish.

STUDENTS of New York history will be glad to know that a classed bibliography of New York colonial history of 229 pages, with an alphabetic index of 43 pages, has just been issued as bulletin 24 in the bibliography series of the New York State Library, and will be mailed to any address for 35 c. Most of the books and articles cited are in the state library, and, as in all the lists of this series, the library call number is given for every work in the New York state collection. A reference list showing the resources of the New York State Library on Connecticut local history similar to bibliography 24 was published in December, 1900, as bibliography 23, at 15 c. It is expected that a list showing what is available on Maine local history, both in the New York state and Bowdoin College libraries will be ready in June. As these historical bibliographies contain much family history, they are a great help to the growing number of genealogists. Bibliography bulletin 25 (price 15 c.) is a similarly classed and indexed list of about 90 pages on China and the far East. It will be ready about April 1, and will be of much service to those interested in the present history and future of the world's oldest empire. The compiler of the bibliography, Miss Margaret Windeyer, a graduate of the New York State Library School, class of 1899, is herself a native and till recently a resident of the far eastern city of Sydney, Australia, and a daughter of Sir William Charles Windeyer, late chief judge of the supreme court of New South Wales.

COMPLETE WORKS OF LORD MACAULAY

New Cambridge Edition. With an Introductory Essay by HENRY D. SEDGWICK, JR., and an extended Bibliographical Sketch, by W. DAWSON JOHNSTON.

THE HISTORY OF ENGLAND, in five octavo volumes, with a full index, $10.00.

ESSAYS, in three octavo volumes, with an index, $6.00.

MISCELLANIES, including Speeches, Letters and Poems, in two octavo volumes, with an index, $4.00.

This edition of Lord Macaulay's Works will appeal strongly to readers who wish his writings in thoroughly handsome library volumes, edited with scholarly care and skill. The volumes are printed from large, beautifully clear type on paper of high quality, and bound in simple but handsome library style. Each of the volumes has a fine frontispiece portrait, the ten including two of Macaulay and eight of great persons who figure in Macaulay's pages. It is difficult to see what more could be done to render this Cambridge Edition of Macaulay complete, attractive and every way satisfactory.

UNDER THE REDWOODS

By BRET HARTE. 16mo, $1.25.

Is there a better story-teller living than Bret Harte? He has told many scores of incomparable tales, and here are nine more, breezy, genial, strong, full of the vast and venturesome West.

Mr. Harte adds to the nine stories a chapter of genuine and picturesque autobiography, entitled "Bohemian Days in San Francisco," which lends a peculiar and personal interest to this book.

MISS PRITCHARD'S WEDDING TRIP

By CLARA LOUISE BURNHAM. 16mo, $1.25.

Miss Pritchard loved a man who married another woman, and who, dying, left a daughter in the care of Miss Pritchard. This daughter strongly resembled her father, so that when Miss Pritchard took her to Europe she felt as if she were taking the wedding trip of which she had dreamed years before. The story is entertainingly told and there is a Burnham romance in it.

CHRISTIAN ORDINANCES AND SOCIAL PROGRESS

The Noble Lectures at Harvard University, for 1900. By the Very Reverend WILLIAM HENRY FREMANTLE, D.D., Dean of Ripon. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

Dean Fremantle is one of the most conspicuous Broad Churchmen in the English pulpit, and in this book he offers a large-minded interpretation of historic Christianity as illustrated in the Bible, creeds, sacraments, worship, and preaching, in their relation to the world of to-day. The treatment is clear, strong, direct, almost conversational in manner, as of a man talking to men and not of a preacher lecturing to them. The book is a valuable and interesting contribution to current religious thought.

The Successors of Mary the First.

By ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS, author of "The Gates Ajar," "A Singular Life," etc. With seven illustrations by A. I. Keller.
1 vol., crown 8vo, $1.50.

This may be regarded as Miss Phelps's contribution to the "servant-girl problem." It purports to give the experiences with servants of a family in a New England suburban town. There were several servants, and among them they presented most of the serious difficulties which servants offer to employers. They were of various nationalities, degrees of ignorance, and shades of incompetence. The perplexities and tribulations of the mistress, her wrestlings with the intelligence offices, which proved largely non-intelligent, and with the societies for the amelioration of the condition of the employed, call out Miss Phelps's most delicious satire and cleverest irony. Mr. Keller's capital illustrations are a most attractive feature of the book.

The characters of the servants, from Mary the first down to the last one mentioned, are drawn in picturesque lines and vivid colors, while those of the mistress, her husband and her daughter, will have the charm of a flavor of familiarity to Miss Phelps's readers. It is needless to add that the story is told with much power and evident zest.

Penelope's Irish Experiences

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN, author of "Penelope's Progress," "The Birds' Christmas Carol," etc. 1 vol., 16mo, $1.25.

Penelope and her companions "do" Ireland in the same irresistible fashion in which they did England and Scotland. The book has the charm of the spontaneous fun which might be expected from three bright young American women in unusual situations and strange surroundings in the native isle of humor.

These young women found occasions for merriment at every turn of the road, and their progress, while not wholly free from friction, was decidedly picturesque and joyous. They traversed Ulster, Munster, Leinster, and Connaught "dear dirty Dublin;" many a Kill and many a Bally lured their pilgrim feet; and wherever they went they found beautiful scenery, hospitable people and humor galore. A slightly veiled romance which mainly concerned Selemina runs through this story of travel, sight-seeing, and scenes in Irish history that strongly stir the susceptible heart; and the genius of Mrs. Wiggins delightfully pervades the whole.

"Noli Me Tangere"says: "It is a great novel, of which the most poignant effect is in a sense of its unimpeachable veracity. The American publishers have called it 'An Eagle Flight,' in its version from the Spanish."

"It was written by that beautiful soul, José Rizal, whom the Spanish despatched to his last account in pure despair of finding any charge against him. I don't know whether it ought to be astonishing or not that a little saffron man, somewhere in that unhappy archipelago, should have been born with a gift so far beyond that of any or all the authors of our roaring literary successes; but these things are strangely ordered by providence, and no one who reads this pathetic novel can deny its immeasurable superiority."

A POWERFUL NOVEL.

The Romance of Gilbert Holmes.

By MARSHALL MONROE KIRKMAN.

SELLING BY THOUSANDS.

Mr. Kirkman is the first writer to enshrine our national heroes, Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis, in the legendary lore of our country, where they belong; to describe them free from the incrustations and scars of politics; to speak of them as they were—tender; to reach their inner lives, showing their love of truth and lofty aspirations. He strips them from the cerements in which the superficial writer and the cold historian have wrapped them, and so hidden them from view. He speaks of Lincoln as he was—a poet and a man, and of Davis as one of the most magnificent and chivalrous souls of his time. So too he has portrayed the renowned Sac Chieftain, Black Hawk, in colors brighter than those Cooper would have used.

"The daring venture of introducing these men in a romance has been crowned with success."—The Philadelphia Press.

"Told with captivating power."—Rt. Rev. WILLIAM E. McLAREN, Bishop of Chicago.

"A Thanatopsis in Prose."—Boston Post.

"Chaste, pure, elegant."—New York Times.

"Of surpassing interest."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

READY TO-DAY

A JOURNEY TO NATURE

By J. P. MOWBRAY ("J. P. M.")

HIS delightful volume, by "J. P. M.," is one of the few new books which the reader would not part with after reading. It is an extraordinary book, which must give the author instant place among our best writers. Seldom it is that one finds a more charming story than this—telling of a Wall Street broker who, under doctor's orders, leaves all work and goes with his young son far out into the country to recuperate and become acquainted with nature and health. Beautifully decorated by CHARLES EDWARD HOOPER.

THE LION'S BROOD

By DUFFIELD OSBORNE

HIS is a story of love and romance in which the author takes advantage of the most dramatic incidents attending the famous Italian campaign of Hannibal. The Lion's Brood, it will be remembered, was the sons of the old Carthaginian leader, Hamilcar, who as children were sworn enemies of Rome.

A HISTORY OF THE WORLD THE WORLD'S WORK

From November, 1900, to April, 1901

HIS is not simply a bound volume of The World's Work, but a history of the world at short range and first hand—a record especially valuable because of the remarkable events these last six months have witnessed all over the world. A very noteworthy feature is the series of portraits of prominent men of our day, most of them having been taken exclusively for The World's Work, and the five hundred or more other illustrations picture the really big things which have happened in the world in the period covered—November, 1900, to April, 1901. To encourage our readers to preserve The World's Work, we have made the price extremely low, viz.: copies in good condition may be exchanged for the handsomely bound volume if sent to the Publishers, with 60 cents.

The Annual Literary Index, 1900

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc.; with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology, and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX complements the "Annual American Catalogue" of books, published each year, by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published during the year of its issue; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays; (4) special bibliographies; (5) authors deceased; (6) dates of principal events during the year. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.

"Of great value to all who would keep advised of the topics and writers in the periodical literature of the day."—Universalist Quarterly.

"Good indexing could no further go."—The Nation.

"The honors of the month, in regard to new books, were carried off by Like Another Helen, by George Horton, which 'caught on' at once, and promises to sell largely during the coming month."—The Bookman.

Like Another Helen

is like another "Alice."

"'LIKE ANOTHER HELEN,' the new novel by GEORGE HORTON, is an exquisite creation—not unworthy to rank with 'Alice of Old Vincennes.' Time and scene are widely different; both books have the same healthy vitality, rapid movement and breathless interest. 'Alice' is an American girl, an exquisite creation of singular charm and beauty. 'Helen' is a Greek, beautiful, desolate, defiant—pure as snow."—Chicago Chronicle.
